

ACTIVITY BOOK

ROARR!
DINOSAUR ADVENTURE

DIPPY!

HEY DINO EXPLORERS! WELCOME TO OUR BRAND NEW ACTIVITY BOOK - PACKED WITH ROARR-SOME QUESTS TO TACKLE! GRAB A PEN AND SOME COLOURING PENCILS AND LET US KNOW HOW YOU GET ON. GOOD LUCK ADVENTURERS!

WASH YOUR HANDS

Use Soap

Palm to Palm

Back of Hands

Fingers Interlaced

Base of Thumb

Fingernails

Wrists

Rinse hands

Dry hands

THE STORY OF

ROARR!

DINOSAUR ADVENTURE

In a mythical corner of Norfolk, tucked away behind tall trees, lies a land that time forgot ...

A place to call home

When British aristocrats Lord and Lady Weston-Smythe bought the spooky Longtail Estate in 1906, they had no idea of the creatures who already called it home. They put the rumours of late-night roars and devoured deer down to locals trying to scare them off, and paid a princely sum for the land and small lodgings.

Archibald and Esme were an adventurous pair who had travelled the world, but now they wanted a place to call home, and the beautiful Norfolk surroundings were perfect for their children – intrepid explorers Henrietta and Cornelius – and scrappy terrier Rex to roam around and get messy, as well as a small holding for their deer and other animals.

The big dig

Henrietta had a keen interest in palaeontology, ever since she'd seen Dippy at the Natural History Museum in London – the dinosaur model had arrived from America the year before. She soon settled on a spot to begin her inaugural dig. Keen to be a dino-discoverer too, Cornelius tagged along, although he mainly made mud castles and put worms in his mouth. Just when Henrietta was about to give up hope of finding any bones, she spotted Cornelius playing with an unusual stone. Only it wasn't a stone – it was a dinosaur tooth.

Soon Henrietta realised that they were sat on a giant T-Rex skeleton. Consulting her palaeontology textbook, she studied the bones and figured out they hadn't been there that long. Perhaps only a few years. But how was that possible? Immersed in her thoughts (and Cornelius in his mud bath), they hadn't realised that a large T-rex had tracked their scent and was stood right behind them.

Escape through the trees

Startled by the T-Rex's mighty roar, Henrietta and Cornelius ran into the woods, the dinosaur hot on their heels. After making their way through the thick brush, they clambered up the branches and climbed from tree to tree, using vines to swing like two tiny Tarzans. At that height, the T-Rex could only watch, gnawing at the lower branches.

Soon Cornelius started to get hungry, and he began to cry. Henrietta, fearful of climbing down, didn't know what to do. That's when a large Diplodocus head appeared. The friendly dinosaur bows its head for the two children to climb aboard, and they do. He takes them to the bottom of the garden so they're home in time for tea. Henrietta names him Dippy.

Time to train

Archibald and Esme don't believe their children when they regale them with their frightening adventure, but Henrietta wasn't taking any chances. The next day, she set up an assault course to put her and Cornelius through their paces. They needed to be fit if they were going to stay one step ahead of T-Rex.

While they clambered and jumped, their faces red and hearts beating fast (and Cornelius constantly asking when it's time for lunch), some smaller dinosaurs appeared curious about the commotion. They wanted to have a go too, Henrietta beckoned to them to join in, and soon she was leading a small troop of dino-buddies. They were scared of T-Rex too and wanted to out run him just like them.

The watering hole

Soon the gang was beat, and they all wanted to cool off, but T-Rex was guarding the small pond, so the rest of the dinosaurs were always going thirsty. Henrietta decided something had to be done. The friendly dinosaurs led her to a clearing with a sunken pit. It was dry, but not for long. The children dragged the rubber hose from the garden shed (Esme used it to water her rose bushes), put the nozzle in the pit and turned on the tap. Soon the dinosaurs were splashing around to their hearts' content, cooling off in the summer sun.

Suddenly T-Rex appeared, and the dinosaurs scattered, terrified for their lives. Henrietta and Cornelius hid behind a bush. But rather than roar or chase after them, T-Rex tentatively approached the pool and lowered his head to drink. Then he sat down and started to cry. Henrietta hadn't had much chance to look at him closely before, but it was obvious now that he was only young. Perhaps the T-Rex bones they'd found had been his mother's and now he was all alone? Slowly she made her way closer, reaching out her hand to stroke the sad T-Rex's nose. To her surprise, he didn't flinch, but rather smiled at her, happy for the attention.

Feeding time

Slowly the other dinosaurs emerged, realizing T-Rex meant them no harm. He was hungry, but he didn't want to hurt them. The other dinosaurs brought vegetation and fruit from the forest, but T-Rex still needed to eat some meat. Henrietta had a bright idea. Maybe T-Rex could eat the deer meat her father hunted.

The dinosaurs crept along behind Henrietta as they made their way to the small holding. Cornelius pointed out all the pigs, sheep and chickens and told T-Rex not to eat any of them, before Henrietta pointed out the cold-store where the deer meat was kept. T-Rex could finally stop terrorizing the other dinosaurs and they could all live together in peace.

A Norfolk secret

For years to come, Henrietta and Cornelius explored the woods with the dinosaurs, discovering new bones and meeting new species. While Archibald often wondered where all his venison went, neither he nor Esme ever saw a dinosaur, but that's probably because they weren't looking hard enough.

Today, their estate is open to the public. You can come and explore the same treetops, watering holes and assault courses that Henrietta and Cornelius did. In other parts of the world, they say that dinosaurs are extinct. But here at Longtail, we know better. Keep your wits about you – you never know what's around the corner.

DIPPY'S ADVENTURERS CLUB

Dippy and his dinosaur friends are setting you a brand new quest! They want YOU to get creative around the home and in the garden, to make as many dinosaur related things as you can. From photographs to crafts and drawings to videos, we want to hear from you! Simply share with us on our social media pages for the chance to win a ROARR-some prize!

BRONTOSAURUS COLOUR BY NUMBER

MATCH THE COLOURS
TO THE NUMBERS

DESIGN A DIPPY FOOTPRINT

COLOUR-IN THE BRACHIOSAURUS

ROARR!
DINOSAUR ADVENTURE

These dinosaurs are admiring themselves in the mirror, but all is not as it seems...

Can you spot the 8 differences?

COLOUR-IN-THE TRICERATOPS

ROARR!

DINOSAUR ADVENTURE

ROAR
DINOSAUR

RR!

ADVENTURE

TYRANNOSAURUS REX

pronounced tie-RAHN-o-SORE-us RECKS. They measured up to 42ft in length and the skull of a Tyrannosaurus Rex alone measured up to 5ft long. Try and spot our T-Rex when you arrive at our admissions area when you next visit!

BRACHIOSAURUS

pronounced brack-ee-ow-sor-us. They weighed about 40,000kg and could reach up 9 metres high - the same as two double-decker buses stacked on top of each other. Have you seen our huge Brachiosaurus in our Dinosaur Trail?

VELOCIRAPTOR

pronounced vuh-lo-suh-rap-taw. A fully grown Velociraptor could grow up to 2m in length and had one of the largest brains when compared to its size of any of the dinosaurs. Make sure you enjoy our Raptor Racers attraction too!

PTERODACTYL

pronounced tear-uh-DACK-til.

Estimates put the average length of a Pterodactyl at 3.5 feet. The Pterodactyl had an elongated beak with about 90 razor sharp teeth. Be sure to play in our Pterodactyl's treehouse, close to Dinomite Indoor Play.

STEGOSAURUS

pronounced
steg-uh-sawr-us.
Stegosaurus had brains the size of ping pong balls and their length was up to 9 meters!

TRICERATOPS

pronounced traï-seh-ruh-tops.

It is believed that fully grown Triceratops were about 8m in length and had anywhere between 400 and 800 teeth.

COLOUR-IN THE TYRANOSAURUS REX

ROARR!
DINOSAUR ADVENTURE

ONE OF THESE DIPPY'S IS NOT LIKE THE OTHERS, ONE OF THESE DIPPY'S JUST DOESN'T BELONG!

Circle which dippy is different to the others, and find out if you were correct at the back of the book

A.

B.

C.

D.

E.

F.

FIND THE PATH TO THE T-REX

A B C

DIPPY! & FRIENDS

HOW MANY DIPPY'S?

Can you count how many Dippy's there are?

Answer

DRAW THE DINO

TIME TO EXPLORE!

Dippy is going out exploring,
Draw some accesories to help him

COLOUR-IN THE STEGOSAURUS

ROARR!

DINOSAUR ADVENTURE

COLOUR AND CUTOUT YOUR OWN DINO MASK!

YOU WILL NEED:

SCISSORS

STRING

COLOURING PENS

ASK AN ADULT OR MAKE SURE YOU HAVE GUIDANCE
FROM A GROWN UP
WHEN USING SCISSORS

HERE'S THE ANSWERS!

MAP OUT YOUR ADVENTURE

THROUGH 85 TRAIL-BLAZING ACRES

- INFO & ESSENTIALS
- Guest Services
 - Visitor Lockers

- REFUELLING
- Water Bottle Refill
 - Snacks & Drinks
 - Restaurants

- FUN STUFF
- Souvenir Photo Print
 - Gifts & Souvenirs
 - Medal Collection Points

- WELLBEING
- Toilets
 - Baby Changing Facilities
 - Hand Washing Facilities
 - Designated Visitor Smoking Area

- TECH
- Free WiFi Across the Park
 - Portable Hearing Loop

- ASSISTANCE
- First Aid Room
 - Emergency Assembly Point

ATTRACTION KEY Keep your wits about you as you use the numbers to navigate around the park. Watch out for dinosaurs!
 • Seasonal opening † Small extra charge

- 1 Admissions
- 2 Base Camp: Sales & Supplies
- 3 Dippy's (Indoor Picnic & Party Room)
- 4 Face Painting ††

- 5 Jurassic Snacks *
- 6 Dinomite Indoor Play Area & Café
- 7 Raptor Racers
- 8 Jurassic Putt
- 9 Pterodactyl's Treehouse
- 10 Neanderthal Walk
- 11 Predator High Ropes *
- 12 Nautilus *
- 13 The Explorers Restaurant *
- 14 Secret Animal Garden
- 15 Animal Encounters Barn
- 16 Waterside Gardens
- 17 Pygmy Goats
- 18 Donkeys
- 19 Deer Safari ††
- 20 Deer Park (not accessible on foot)
- 21 Palaeontologist Camp *
- 22 Dinosaur Trail
- 23 X-Tinction Fossil Dig
- 24 Climb-a-saurus
- 25 Assault-o-saurus
- 26 Adventure Play Area
- 27 Tiny Terrorosaurs (Under 7's Play Area)
- 28 Undercover Picnic Area
- 29 Lost World A-Mazing Adventure
- 30 Dippy-ville (Toddler Indoor Play)
- 31 Dippy Splash Zone *
- 32 Dippy's Snack Shack *

JURASSIC JOURNEY HERE